IT IS

Inlaid flooring; parquetry flooring; a hard wood floor, polished and beautiful, in various patterns. It is laid on old floors or new. Its sanitary effects are thus perfect. It is the warmest flooring, the healthiest, deadening sounds, keeping out air and dust—no cracks in it, no seams parting. It lasts as long as the house does. It is the great invention of the age. It is sweeping things. This is the meaning of "Wood Carpet." Come see it. We keep it in stock. You can see it laid, ready for use, at

DISEASES AMONG ANIMALS.

Report of the Live Stock Commission Shows the Cattle of the State to Be Healthy.

The Indiana Live Stock Sanitary Commission filed its annual report with the Governor yesterday. The amount paid for sixty-nine horses killed in the various counties by order of the commission aggregated $2,385, making an average allowance of $33.83. The salaries of the commissioners amounted to $2,114, and their expenses $1,044.14. Contagious diseases were reported as existing among the horses, and tuberculosis and big-jaw among the cattle in many localities of the State. It has been the work of the commission to quarantine all known cases as far as practicable, and to save the State from paying an excessive amount for animals killed by order of the commission. The report of the State veterinarian, M. E. Knowles, was embodied in the commissioners' report. He found glanders existing in fifteen of the twenty counties visited, directly traceable in most instances to Texas ponies. Influenza in a mild form prevailed over the eastern and northern portions of the State during the summer. The cattle have been exceptionally healthy, and tuberculosis, when found, and that of small degree, was usually among dairy cattle. The live stock of the State, generally, is reported as very healthy.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's father, and at 7:30 o'clock they left for an extended Southern tour. Both are among the best-known people of Wabash society.

POLICEMAN BRUTALLY ASSAULTED.

Three Men Fighting Turn Upon Patrolman Koons, Who Tried to Stop a Disgraceful Row.

Harry Kokemiller, Emil Wundrum and another young man, name unknown, had a fight last evening, about 6 o'clock, on the corner of Tennessee and Morris streets, and Patrolman Koons was called from his home on Corlis street to stop the disturbance. The fighters resented his interference, and combined in assaulting him. The three proved too much for the officer, and soon had possession of his revolver and mace. With these and a brick-bat they brutally beat him about the head, breast and arms, and inflicting a half dozen lacerations on his head. He was saved from worse treatment by the timely interference of a Mr. Sell, owner of a saloon near the scene of the fight, who hurried the officer into a back room of his place. The assailants then fled, and up to a late hour last night had not been arrested, though the police force was instructed to keep a sharp lookout for them. Koons was taken to his home, where Dr. Hodges dressed his wounds. He recovered on the force, but has won the respect of his fellow-patrolmen and superior officers as a man of bravery and discretion. Kokemiller attacked an old man in West Indianapolis not long ago and was driven off at the point of a knife, receiving a number of stabs. Owing to the wounds he received no prosecution followed his wanton attack.

Amusement Notes.

The Park was crowded again last night, and the sensational melodrama, "Lost in New York," was enthusiastically received.

"A Barrel of Money" was repeated at English's last night, and will be presented this afternoon and evening, when the engagement closes.

Lawrence Barrett will be supported by Miss Gale, Edward Hanley, John A. Lane, Fredric Vroom and other well-known people during his engagement at the Opera-house to-morrow. "Hamlet" and "Francisca da Rimini" are the plays to be presented.

There was an increased audience at the Grand last night to see "U and I" as played by the Williams and Kelly company. The novelties of the piece and the numerous eccentric specialties introduced by the principals created much amusement and applause. The closing performance will be given this afternoon and evening.

The appearance of Stuart Robson in Bronson Howard's great comedy, "The Henrietta," at the Grand Opera-house to-morrow night, will be one of the important theatrical events of the season. Mr. Robson is not only a comedian of fine ability, but is surrounded by a superior company of players, and "The Henrietta" will be given a strong presentation. The engagement will be for three nights and a matinee.

The sale of seats for the engagement of "The County Fair," at English's Opera-house, next week, will open in the box-office to-morrow. The comedy is constructed on the same lines as "The Old Homestead." It tells the story of country folk, and presents characters familiar even to the least observing. One writer says: "It is as sweet as the odor of new-mown hay and the laughter of village maidens in summer," and the central figure, Abigail Pree, spinster, prim, practical, yet warm-hearted, is painted with a master hand.

Last of the Riddle Readings.

The last of Mr. Riddle's series of Shakespearean readings occurred last evening at Plymouth Church, the play being that of "Cymbeline." Nearly every seat in the body of the edifice was filled and quite a number occupied the gallery. The audience followed Mr. Riddle with the closest attention and applauded here and there the most difficult passages. It is safe to say that no recent literary entertainment has been received with more marked favor than the readings of Mr. Riddle. He will always find a large and appreciative audience in Indianapolis.

A STALWART REPUBLICAN STATE.

Politics in Pennsylvania and Something of Her Resources and System of Taxation.

Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, who stopped on his way to St. Louis to attend the meeting of the Indiana Commandery of the Loyal Legion, in this city, was seen yesterday morning, while he was rummaging the second-hand bookstores for books about the civil war, of which he has a large collection. He is a most pleasing man, with a bright face and a frank and taking manner. He is one of those energetic men who get about with a crutch so nimbly that a good walker with two sound legs finds his gait as rapid as he cares for. "What is the political outlook in Pennsylvania?" asked a Journal reporter.

"We are having a fierce campaign over the governorship," replied the Governor, "but there can be no doubt of Mr. Delamater's election. The bitterness is not all on one side, however, as there is an element in the Democratic party as hostile to Pattison as in the Republican party to Delamater. Pennsylvania is a Republican State, and is no less so to-day than any time in the past ten years."

"Pennsylvania is a very prosperous State," observed the reporter.

"A great and growing State," quickly put in the Governor, "and destined to grow faster than any Eastern State. Her magnificent resources are scarcely yet touched. The question of taxation being referred to Governor Beaver's inquiry, Chicago, no tax for State purposes on real estate. We got beyond that some years ago, and could not go back to it. We tax railroad corporations upon their net earnings. If they make them, and if not upon the estimated value of their stock. We tax other franchises. We tax money loaned, and also tax the loans of corporations. That is, if a railroad company having a charter borrows a large sum of money, we tax their debt and leave them to collect it of the holders of their stock or bonds. These are the sources of revenue, but none of them affect real estate. I attribute no little of our prosperity to that system of taxation. We raise $2,000,000 a year, and that would be a burden if imposed upon farms and homes."

WORK OF CONVENTIONS.

An Association That Does Good Work in Punishing Horse-Thieves.

The Wabash General Association of Detective Companies, organized thirty years ago, met in annual convention in the agricultural rooms of the State-house yesterday. Three hundred and fifty delegates from Indiana, eastern Illinois and western Ohio were present, representing a membership of 6,000 men, mostly farmers, who, as the owners of horses, are interested in tracing down thieves. The association is secret in its workings, and undertakes to return all stolen horses or reimburse the owners for their value in cash. The session was called to order by John S. Gray, of Waynetown, president, D. B. Hostetter, of Indianapolis, permanent secretary. These officers held over the present year. Henry Miller, of New Paris, O., was elected second vice-president, and James H. Greene, of North Vernon, third vice-president. The president's report showed that twenty horses had been stolen during the year from members, and of these eighteen had been recovered. The conviction and imprisonment in the penitentiary of twenty-five thieves had been secured. Nine new companies were admitted to membership yesterday, and 175 delegates were initiated in the unwritten work of the association. The president called attention to the fact that in the reorganization of the association, under the laws of Indiana, some years ago, each member has the powers of a constable.

Furniture-Workers' Proceedings.

The morning and afternoon sessions yesterday of the furniture-workers' convention were taken up in hearing and discussing reports of local unions. A dispatch was received from Mr. Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, congratulating the convention upon the past and future, and adding, "May harmony prevail and success follow your deliberations." It was decided to put three delegates in the field during the coming year, whose duties shall be to deliver addresses and act as organizers of unions. A committee was appointed to select the three agents and to report on a roster. The report will be presented this morning. This evening will be devoted to a mass-meeting in Arbeiter Hall, where the convention is in progress. The report of the executive committee shows that twenty new charters were issued during the year, adding 2,000 to the membership of the international union. Fifty-one demands had been made, and thirty-one granted, without strikes. Thirteen strikes resulted favorably and seven failed, costing, in all, $7,018.52. The demands were for better wages, shorter hours, and the rescinding of objectionable shop rules. The sick benefits paid amounted to $16,294.52; death benefits, $9,500 and insurance on tools, $7,028.25.

Gave Up His Good Money.

A Rosasco, an Italian, who has a saloon near the fair grounds, made a sale of intoxicants the other day for which he changed a bill bearing on a corner the figure 10. Yesterday he said he found the bill was counterfeit and he called on the police to arrest the man who had given it to him. The bill, however, is not counterfeit. It is a genuine confederate ten-dollar note, and Mr. Rosasco, who cannot read, was informed that the charge of passing counterfeit money cannot be made in this case.

This range is for the cruiser "Boston," now at the New York navy yard. All sizes for families or hotels. For sale by W. M. H. BENNETT, 38 South Meridian street.

GOTT LEFT.

Miss Mary Gott, employed at the Hampton watch works at Canton, was very anxious to see a picture which one of the workmen had. During his absence Miss Gott opened his desk and saw a snake about eight inches in length. She was in convulsions and had to be taken home in a hack. When she recovered she found the snake coiled around her watch. No snakes about our watch works. Watches of all kinds.

Kabo, Kabo, Kabo—that sounds like an African name.

It means a corset "bone" that can't be broken—if it can't be broken, it doesn't stick into you—so it means a "bone" of comfort, not of contention.

It means a corset "bone" that doesn't kink—if it doesn't kink, the corset can't roll up in the middle as corsets are apt to do—so it means a "bone" that stays where you put it.

It isn't a "bone" at all, but Kabo, Kabo, Kabo; and Kabo means a corset you wear a week or two or three, till you make up your mind about it, and then go back to the store and get your money, if you'd rather have money than Kabo.

There's a primer on Corsets for you at the store.
